

THOMAS S. TREDWAY

Associate Professor of Actuarial Science
Department of Risk Management and Insurance
J. Mack Robinson College of Business
(404) 651-3841

EDUCATION

Emory University, Atlanta, Georgia
NSF Institute in Mathematics and Computer Science, 1974
Mathematics, Master of Arts Degree, 1967

Hampden-Sydney College, Hampden-Sydney, Virginia
Bachelor of Science, 1962

AWARDS

Faculty Recognition Award for distinguished contributions in teaching, 1999

EXPERIENCE

Georgia State University, Atlanta, Georgia, 1995 – Present
Associate Professor of Actuarial Science

Vice President/Associate Actuary, The Segal Company, Atlanta, Georgia, 1982 – 1995
Lead actuary for over twenty multi-employer, corporate and government clients. Responsible for in-house continuing education of the actuarial assistants. Technical resource person for the company's Southeastern region.

Actuarial Associate, Munich American Reassurance Company, Atlanta, Georgia, 1980 – 1982
Developed group life re-insurance rates. Provided LTD quotes. Wrote computer programs to aid in developing co-insurance quotes. Developed the automation of co-insurance.

Chairman, Mathematics Department, Oxford College of Emory University, Oxford, Georgia, 1967 – 1980
Rank of Associate Professor.

Continuing Education Activities, 1995 – Present
Taught Compound Interest Theory, Ruin Theory and Survival Models in the Georgia State University Actuarial Science Seminar Program.

SERVICE ACTIVITIES INTERNAL TO THE UNIVERSITY

Member, RMI Scholarship Committee, 1995 – Present
Member, College of Business Assessment Committee, 1995 – 1997
Member, RMI Marketing and Promotion Committee, 1995 – Present
Chair, RMI Association Committee, 2001 – Present
Member, RMI Program Liaison Committee, 2002

SERVICE ACTIVITIES IN ACADEMIC AND PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS

Associate in the Society of Actuaries
Enrolled Actuary under ERISA
Chairman, Society of Actuaries Examination Committee, EA-1
Member, Southeastern Actuaries Conference